JACKY LANDGRAF

ABOUT THE ARTIST

POP ART COLLAGES

Jacky Landgraf is a contemporary artist from Munich. The self-taught artist does not fit into any singular category: Sometimes he combines painted constructivism with photography, or captures urban spaces in a minimalist way with his camera. His current focus is pop art collage, done by hand and without digital intervention.

Jacky Landgraf and his work are the antithesis to digital overstimulation. A rejection of the artificial connects his work at the conceptual core. His pieces are minimalist, and possess a slowing down effect. They do not employ digital editing. It is with absolute intention that his cheeky, socio-critical collages are purely analog, created by hand, with much time and precision.

After his stations in life in Braunschweig and Leipzig, Jacky Landgraf now lives and creates in Munich-Schwabing. His first editions were shown at B10, ART MUC, PHOTO Munich and STROKE Munich.

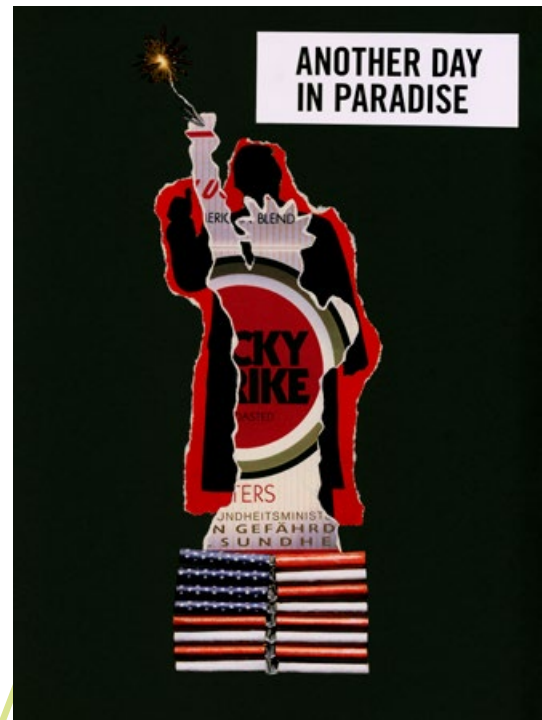

Humorous, frivolous, easy going: Jacky Landgraf consistently redefines himself. In his latest series, the Munich artist focuses on analog pop art collages. His handmade artworks deal with socio-political topics, provoking reflection and often, laughter.

The collage collection "Keep it real" understands itself in good Jacky tradition as an analog antithesis to the digital madness and artificial products from Chat GPT & Co. His creations are minimalist: recycling pop culture to create something new, something that comments on itself.

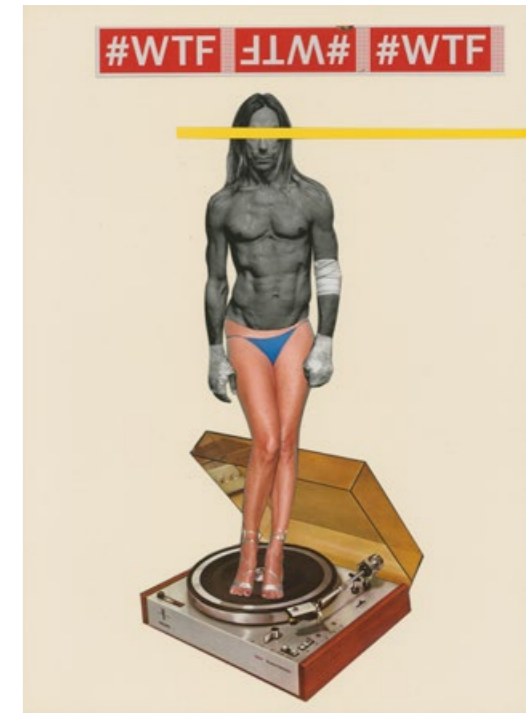

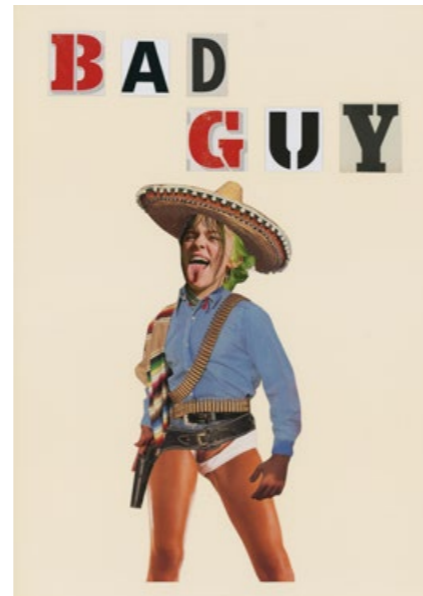

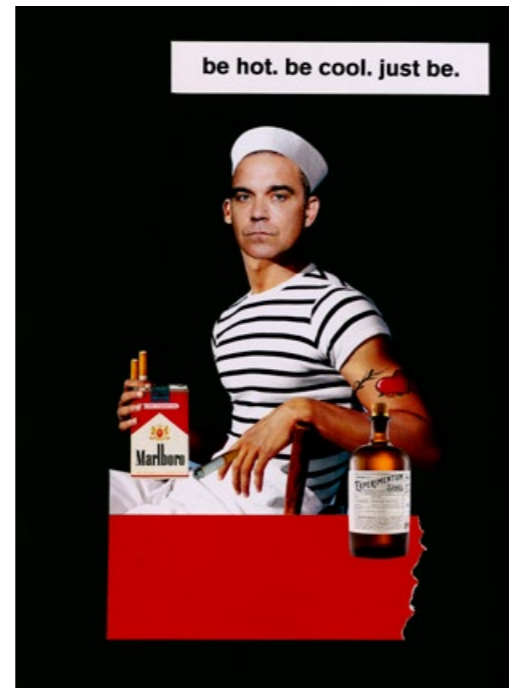

In his Munich studio, Jacky constructs new worlds from old content, based on a large stock of coffee-table magazines. Real stories are created through finely composed heads and figures, scenic elements and intensifying extras. The striking headlines play a central role in the artwork.

All artworks in the format DIN A3 to DIN A2 are available in a handmade frame and passport from the Schwabing manufactory "Le Cadre" or in a larger format from the object wall company FRAMENESS.
